NO 3RD TERM, SAYS SENATE

NOTE OF 12 TO 6 ENDS LEAGUE OF AMERICAS PLAN

Only Small Nations Back Curb on U. S.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Action in the Pan-American conference today forebodes a complete vindication by the Latin-American countries of the policy of the United States in the western hemisphere. The outstanding developments of the day were:

The subcommittee considering the question of a rule on intervention reached an agreement in principle satisfactory to the United States.

The committee on reorganization of the Pan-American union overwhelmingly went on record against the establishment of an American league of nations or other form of super government on the American continents.

Favor Hughes' Contention.

The intervention subcommittee, of which Charles E. Hughes, chief delegate of the United States, is chairman, held a four hour session this evening and is to meet tomorrow morning to complete its labors. It transpired that the subcommittee, sustaining the position of Mr. Hughes, rejected the proposed declaration that "no state may intervene in the internal affairs of another," and in favor of Mr. Hughes' contention that intervention under prescribed circumstances is sanctioned by recognition of international law.

Reject American League Scheme.

It is less important to the United States was the action of the committee in the reorganization of the Pan-American union.

The committee, which has been considering the reorganization of the Pan-American union, was almost unanimously opposed to clothing the union with political powers to interfere in the affairs of American republics.

Noted Only by Small Nations.

The six republics which voted for the opening wedge are all small countries. The big countries, including Argentina, which is seeking to unite the union with economic powers to raise the tariff wall of the United States, stood shoulder to shoulder against the opening wedge to the establishment of an American super-state.

World Have Limited U. S. Action.

This came to naught one of the reasons furthered if not originally devised for the purpose of limiting the scope of action of the United States in the Caribbean region, maintaining the integrity of the Monroe doctrine, and otherwise protecting the rights and interests in the western hemisphere. If the Pan-American union were clothed with political powers, it would be possible, it was contended, for the latter to force the United States to intervene in the affairs of the Latin American republics for the preservation of order and protection of rights and interests, to compel the United States to act in a manner which would be to the detriment of the United States.

18 REPUBLICANS JOIN DEMOCRATS TO PUT IT OVER

Fess Still Argues Coolidge May Run.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—(Special.)—By a vote of 56 to 26 the senate today went on record against a third presidential term.

Eighteen Republicans and the Farmer-Labor member joined with thirty-seven Democrats in support of the resolution of Senator La Follette (Rep., Wis.). Twenty-three Republicans and three Democrats were recorded in the negative.

The action represented another in a series of triumphs for a combination of radical Republicans and Democrats over the friends of the Coolidge administration.

Strike Out One Clause.

As adopted, the resolution was amended by the elimination of the second clause in which the senate commended the observance of the precedent against a third term by President Coolidge. The proposal to strike out this clause, made by Senator Fess (Rep., O.), one of the administration's leaders, and accepted by Senator La Follette, who explained that the debate had shown that some doubt exists as to what the President may do if offered renomination. Several regular Republicans including Senators Curtis (Kas.) and Gillett (Mass.), who opposed the original resolution, voted for it after the Coolidge clause was stricken out.

Republicans Who Bolled.

The eighteen Republicans who voted for the anti-third term declaration were Senators Blaine and La Follette (Wis.), Borah and Gooding (Idaho), Brookhart (Ia.), Capper and Curtis (Kas.), Couzens (Mich.), Cutting (N. M.), Frazier and Nye (N. D.), Gillett (Mass.), Howell and Norris (Neb.), Johnson (Cal.), McMaster (S. D.), Sackett (Ky.), and Schall (Minn.). The three Democrats who voted against it were Senators Blewett (S. C.), Ferris (Mich.), and Randall (La.). Two roll calls preceded the final vote. The senate, by a vote of 27 to 52, rejected a motion by Senator Bingham (Rep., Conn.) to refer the resolution to the Judiciary committee. Thirteen Republicans and the Farmer-Labor member voted with 38 Democrats against this motion, while only five Republicans voted for it.

Fess Amendment Swamped.

The next roll call came on a motion by Senator Fess to insert the word "elective" so that the effect would be to approve the retirement of presidents "after their second elective term." The administration senators defeated Senator Fess on this proposal and it met defeat by a vote of 73 to 23. Another amendment by Senator Fess striking out the words "unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institutions" and an amendment by Senator Bingham adding the words "except in case of grave national emergency" were rejected without a record vote.

Debate Coolidge Intentions.

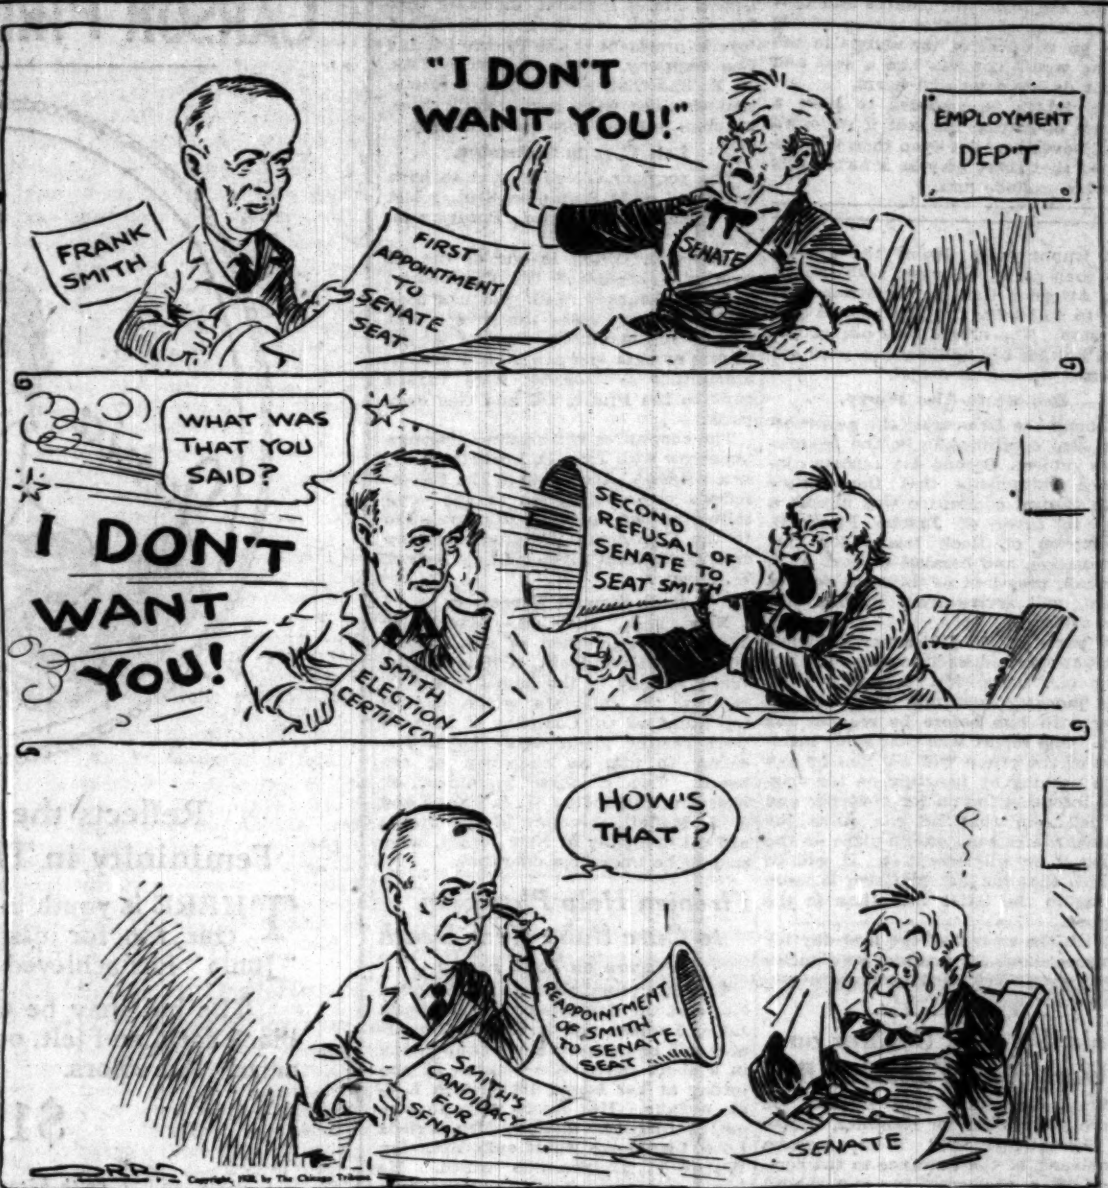

Another day of debate centering on the intentions of President Coolidge preceded the adoption of the resolution. Senator Borah said that he regarded President Coolidge as completely out of the race and therefore considered his vote for the resolution as not in any way applying to him.

"Those of us who know the President," said Senator Borah, "know that no convention is going to pull him away from his declarations."

Senator Reed (Rep., Pa.), in opposing the resolution, said that the senate "had no more to say about the matter than an old ladies' sewing society."

Senator Blewett, speaking against it, said that the only honest construction which could be put on the resolution was that "it is designed to put a quietus on the boom for the renomination of President Coolidge."

302 ALCOHOLISM DEATHS SET NEW RECORD IN CITY

Deaths from alcoholism caused chiefly by the drinking of poison moonshine liquor increased nearly 12 per cent in Chicago last year, setting a new record since the adoption of the 18th amendment, official figures of the city health department disclosed yesterday.

"The death toll for the year was 302, as compared to 265 in 1926, an increase of 37. This brought the alcohol mortality rate per 100,000 population up from 8.7 to 9.7. Alcohol death statistics for the last 10 years are as follows:

MRS. COOLIDGE, ILL FROM COLD, IS RECOVERING

Washington, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The cold which has kept Mrs. Coolidge confined to her room for several days showed signs of abating tonight and White House physicians were hopeful that she would be able to leave the house in a day or two.

A slight irritation developed in her side, but it was believed to be a local irritation caused by the cold and there was no concern expressed over this development.

Robber Seeks Rest in Police Station; Gets It

Louis Oliver, 30 years old, formerly of St. Paul, Minn., applied early yesterday at the Oak Park police station for a night's lodging. He was given a place to sleep in the basement. Then came Karl W. Rohrer, of 703 South Campbell avenue, who complained that an hour before he had been slugged and robbed. His description of the robber fitted Oliver so accurately that Lieut. Harry Wilson brought Oliver up from the warm spot by the basement fire. Rohrer identified him as the robber and later in the day Magistrate Feron held him to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000.

Find $2,500 Lost Hidden Under Pile of Lumber

Sergeant Edward Weber and Philip Cassin, of the detective bureau, searched the grounds of the White City amusement park yesterday until near 44th street, they found a weather-beaten pile of lumber, from which they pulled a black satchel containing rings, watches and pins valued at $2,500. The discovery came as a result of a confession made to the New York police by Andrew Rogers and Bernard Gaines, 16 year old thieves. They said that after taking the loot in New York they came here on Jan. 18 and hid it under the lumber.

HUSBAND SLAIN, WIFE WOUNDED BY BOOTLEGGER

A young husband was slain and his wife so seriously wounded that she is not expected to live in a mysterious shooting affair in a rooming house at 515 Diversey parkway early this morning. The dead man is Leland Brian, an employe at the Wilson cafe, 955 Wilson avenue. He died an hour after the shooting in Columbus hospital. Mrs. Irene Brian is at the same hospital with a bullet through the abdomen. Just before he died Brian told Lieut. John J. O'Brien of the Sheffield avenue police that he had been shot by a bootlegger who had taken him to the house, which is conducted by Mrs. Mary Barrett.

Girl, 15, Dead in Suicide Pact; Another May Die

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 10.—(Special.)—A strange suicide pact, the motive for which has not as yet been discovered, resulted in the death of a 15-year-old girl today. The girl, who was a Milwaukee hotel owner, while Bertha Flanagan, 20, a nurse maid for the adopted sister of the dead girl, is in a serious condition at Emergency hospital. Four tablespoonsful of poison were taken by each of the girls after they had registered under assumed names at a hotel.

Brian's Health Fails; Won't Go to League Meet

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
PARIS, Feb. 10.—The French diplomatic world was worried today by a report that Philippe Berthelot, permanent secretary in the foreign ministry, will represent France at the next session of the league of nations council because of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand's increasing bad health. It is believed in well informed circles that Mr. Berthelot is being groomed to replace M. Briand as foreign minister. M. Briand was noticeably feeble when he mounted the senate tribune to respond to Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany recently.

Charge Dry's Kill First Then Investigate

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Miami, Fla., Feb. 10.—(Special.)—Arguments that in the eyes of prohibition enforcement officers, the mere suspicion of being a bootlegger has become a capital offense along the coast of Florida were advanced late today in the case against three United States coast guardsmen charged with the murder of Ermon H. Jones, March 14, 1927, while he was cruising aboard a pleasure craft off Tahiti beach, near Coconut Grove.

U. S. Defends Killers.

The government men on trial are Boatwain H. P. Farry, known as "Two Gun Farry," so he told the court with a smirk; M. E. Lowery and Joseph Kasom, guardsmen. The federal government has come to their aid. The accused men are being defended by the department of justice, their case being in the hands of M. J. Morrison, assistant to the attorney general at Washington, and Louis S. Joel, assistant U. S. district attorney at Jacksonville.

Case of Jury Action.

The reason for this is that the defense conducted by the government feared the region from Key West to Miami and from Miami to Fort Lauderdale was so wrought up over the series of killings in connection with liquor that the accused coast guardsmen might not face so well with a jury drawn from these parts.

Miami citizens, criticizing this procedure, are asking a counter question as to whether the effect, if this practice were kept up, might not be to draw juries from pronounced dry counties, with whom fanatics over liquor enforcement might outweigh all else in a case of this kind.

Not Subject to Death.

"Well," said Judge Sheppard, "the boat's license might be subject to forfeiture." "But," he added dryly, "the crew would not be subject to death."

The evidence as analyzed before the court, while the jury was out of the room, sets up the following episode: Jones and three companions were taking a pleasure trip in Blackhawk bay March 14 of last year. With him was his fiancée, Miss Jean McCoy. Just off Tahiti beach a small skiff showed off and went out to meet them. It was dark and neither boat was carrying lights.

ALDERMEN DO AN ABOUT FACE ON TRANSIT BILL

BY OSCAR HEWITT.
(Picture on back page.)

Considerable progress was made yesterday in arranging the stage for the biggest local transportation program which Chicago has known for 30 years. The aldermen, composing the subcommittee drafting transit bills for the legislature, indicated a highly favorable attitude toward the "terminable" franchise bill openly advocated by the companies. This is the key bill.

New Terminable Act Suits Car Lines.

The aldermen will forgo the pleasure of a holiday Monday—which they seldom do—to take formal action on this and the other four bills. The prolonged, and unusually orderly, discussion yesterday gave every sign of an approving vote on each bill in a form acceptable to the companies.

Aldermen Change Attitude.

The aldermanic position yesterday was in direct reverse of the clamorous demand they made on the legislature last year. At that time the aldermen asked for enabling legislation which would allow them to grant a "terminable permit" which could be terminated on the terms and conditions they would place in the permit itself. After the legislature adjourned the aldermen wrote and presented to the public a bill reiterating that same policy. After they submitted this bill to the companies last November the companies went before the committee on Dec. 8 and balked. Attorney Patrick J. Lucy, speaking for the companies, said they desired a "terminable" permit, but terminable only by purchase either by the city or designated corporation.

Companies Satisfied Now.

Yesterday First Assistant Corporation Counsel James W. Green presented a draft of a bill—the direction of the committee, he said—which met the approval of Mr. Lucy representing the Elevated Lines, James Sheehan, attorney for the Chicago Rapid Transit company (west and north side surface lines), and of Harry Weber, attorney for the Chicago City Railway company (south side surface lines). The lawyers for the transit lines interpreted the Green bill to mean that a "terminable" permit issued under it could only be revoked through purchase by city or designated buyer.

Not Subject to Death.

It is significant that a majority of the aldermanic drafting committee spoke in favor of the Green bill. Only Ald. Wiley W. Mills and Donald S. McKinley criticized it.

Political Fetter Appears.

Ald. John Toman placed in the committee a reference to the agreement of political alliance between Gov. Small and Mayor Thompson by which the former has said that he will call a special session of the legislature to enact necessary transit bills. Toman used this political arrangement as an argument in favor of haste in preparing the bills on which the aldermen have been loitering along since last July. There was no speed displayed until the Thompson-Small alliance was announced.

...a terminable permit bill. Incidentally, one alderman whispered on the side: "Jimmie still shows the effect of that loss of sleep."

Mr. Breen had only one copy of his new bill. Ordinarily, aldermen and lawyers demand a copy that they may read the text of it before serious discussion and the making of commitments.

"Isn't the principal difference between this proposed bill and the previous one drafted by the committee?" asked Ald. Arvey. "Under the first bill a franchise could be terminated for violation of the terms and conditions placed in the franchise; while this bill says we may go to court and compel the companies to obey the terms and conditions?"

Power of Forfeiture Gone.

Attorney Lucey said: "The first bill gave the city the power to forfeit the franchise and destroy the property of the company. It permitted the city to name the causes for forfeiture. This second bill gives every protection which the first bill gave, except the power of forfeiture. The effect of forfeiture is now illustrated by the surface lines by a decrease in the value of the franchise. It has no franchise at present. You cannot sell bonds on a franchise subject to forfeiture; it does not matter what you call the ordinance."

"I agree with that statement," said Ald. Mills. "This is called a terminable permit, but it is a perpetual franchise."

"Are you willing that the city should have the power to acquire these lines and have them municipally operated?" asked Ald. Nelson, often characterized as Mayor Thompson's floor leader in the city council.

"Yes," replied Mills, "but this plan means nothing for municipal ownership because we do not get the financial aid power to raise the necessary cash. You are not going to have any better service by a perpetual franchise."

Debate Municipal Ownership.

"How can we get better service and lower fares?" asked Ald. Nelson.

"By municipal ownership," said Mills.

"What do you say about municipal ownership in Seattle?" prodded Ald. Nelson.

"That is a case of where your friend Die bought at too high a price," retorted Mills.

"What about San Francisco?" asked Ald. McDonough.

"The municipal system there is better than the privately owned," said Mills.

"This bill may prevent the city from granting a fixed term franchise," commented Ald. McKinlay.

"Under another law the city could still grant a term franchise for 20 years," said Mr. Lucey.

Mills and McKinlay doubted this legal view. In reply to a question of Ald. Meyerling, Mr. Lucey made a statement which brought forth a speech from John Maynard Harlan, attorney for the Laman plan, which claims that a surface line franchise on a 20 year basis can be adequately and properly financed.

Keep 20 Year Limit.

Ald. Meyerling advocated a change in the law by which the city will be given the power to grant a fixed term franchise for 40 years. In this period it has heretofore been represented by the companies that they could amortize out the investment in the property. But all of the aldermen who spoke favored a 20 year limitation.

The companies have repeatedly indicated that they will not accept a franchise for 20 years, claiming that it cannot be financed at a reasonable rate and for a reasonable fare. If the law stands so the city can grant no term franchise except one which the companies will not accept, then the city and companies can agree only upon a "terminable" permit which can only be terminated when the city buys or finds an acceptable purchaser.

That is the program so far as the discussion disclosed yesterday and there were several who advocated speed in adopting it.

Denies Fixing Any Date.

"I never named any specific date," he replied. "That was injected by somebody else. There can't be too much haste in so important a matter. When we do the job it's going to last a long time."

The meeting of Gov. Small and the Thompson allies this morning is anticipated as the high spot in what is expected to be one of the busiest days in this unprecedentedly hurried ticket making period.

Possibly the second most important bit of business may be the opening of actual efforts to narrow down the Republican race for the governorship as that Small will be faced by only one rival of major importance.

Such a development was forecast yesterday by reports of a disinterestedly opposed nature, concerning the other two candidates, Secretary of State Emmerson and Attorney General Carlstrom. The first report was that Mr. Emmerson would withdraw from the governorship battle and run for the United States senate against Frank L. Smith, who on Friday resigned his credentials as senator-elect in order to submit himself to the voters once more.

MAYOR TO FORCE COUNTY G. O. P. TO APPROVE SMALL

Governor Here Today to Meet Party Chiefs.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Mayor William Hale Thompson will go the whole route for Gov. Len Small and his third term hopes. He will insist today that the governor be elected by the Thompson-Crowe-Galpin county committee.

The mayor made his position plain soon after seeing the governor, who came to Chicago yesterday to be on hand for this morning's conference with the executive committee of the county organization, at which, it was announced last Tuesday, some of the leaders proposed to make certain demands as conditions precedent to an endorsement.

"The committee, however, told newspaper men that he had not approved those demands as they were given to the public and that there were no conditions attached to his agreement to be on hand for the governor for renomination. In other quarters it was learned that the mayor would insist that every ward committeeman sign up for the governor or lose the benefits of the patronage pool which is under his control."

Expects Others to Agree.

"I've never had any doubt that the county committee would go along with Gov. Small," he said with significant emphasis.

"The committee told me some time ago that it would support the man I picked for governor and I don't believe there'll be any objection or difficulty in the way of his endorsement. He'll be renominated and reelected."

"We're interested in doing something for the people of Chicago, and there isn't any other candidate for governor who can give us any help with the traction problem this year, and the situation demands an immediate solution."

The mayor was asked whether he would insist on a second special session of the general assembly for the purpose of giving Chicago home rule over its utilities before the primaries on April 10.

Denies Fixing Any Date.

"I never named any specific date," he replied. "That was injected by somebody else. There can't be too much haste in so important a matter. When we do the job it's going to last a long time."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Illinois will continue to have only one member of the senate until next winter at least, in the opinion of senators of both parties and all factions.

That Frank L. Smith, appointed yesterday by Gov. Len Small as United States senator after relinquishing his elective credentials through resignation, has the slightest chance of being seated on the basis of his appointive credentials, was the opinion of senators. Both friends and opponents of Mr. Smith were of the opinion that the Illinoisian will not attempt to obtain his seat unless he is reflected in November.

The assumption was that Mr. Smith would be too busy with his primary campaign to waste time in Washington during the next two months and that if renominated another airing of his case on the floor of the senate in the spring would not win him a seat and might do his campaign harm.

Mr. Smith is conceded to have a chance of getting his seat if reflected next November, but even then it is expected that there may be a formidable effort to exclude him.

and emphatically denied the rumor, and then said the other yarn that it was Attorney General Carlstrom who was to withdraw and run for the senatorship. The official was out of the city, but his headquarters at once authorized an official denial.

Democrats Also Worry.

Among the Democrats the governorship also continued to be the trouble subject. Second day reports confirmed statements that the party's state central committee was almost a unit in favor of Justice Floyd E. Thompson of Rock Island for this nomination, and because of that A. J. Cernak, president of the Cook county board, will arrive from Florida late this afternoon.

A party of the Chicagoan's friends went to Carbondale last night so that they can board Mr. Cernak's train this morning and talk the situation over with him before he reaches the city. One report was that some members of the group will tell him he can gain nothing by insisting on his original intention to run for governor and to tell him that he can have the United States senatorship place on the ticket if he will accept it. It will be argued that his wet platform is more fitting in the latter race than in the former.

With the arrival of the first day for filing petitions for precinct captaincies there were 7,000 such documents presented for filing.

ANOTHER TEAPOT OIL WITNESS IS LIVING IN EUROPE

Son of J. E. O'Neil Can't Be Reached to Testify.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Another witness sought by the senate committee investigating latest ramifications of the Teapot Dome oil scandal has been located on foreign soil.

Senator Nye (Rep., N. D.), chairman of the committee, announced today that a telegram from Jesse D. Rockefeller, United States marshal, indicated that Wayne O'Neil, son of James E. O'Neil, former president of the Prairie Oil and Gas company, is not at Garden City, N. Y., and that, according to information obtained from postal authorities, his mail is being forwarded to Italy.

The younger O'Neil is said to have left the United States on Sept. 9 last for Villa San Patrino, Bordighera, Italy.

James E. O'Neil is one of the oil men who organized the Continental Trading Company, Ltd. He has been in Europe ever since the government sought his testimony relative to the profits of that company. His profits, amounting to $300,000, were turned back to the Prairie Oil and Gas company.

The committee will resume hearings tomorrow with John D. Rockefeller Jr. as a witness. According to Mr. Rockefeller's communications to the committee he has no information relative to the Continental Trading Company and the Continental Oil Company of New Jersey, which was said to be under consideration.

Firemen Help Physician to Cure Baby Near Death

Through prompt aid given by squad No. 4 of the fire department, Patricia Love, 5 weeks old, is alive and probably will be completely well and happy in a short time. She became ill yesterday at her home, 4221 North Kedzie avenue. Her lungs were so congested that her mother, Mrs. Frieda Love, feared she would suffocate. Dr. Wilbur F. Thayer was called. He found only a spark of life in the little body. He suggested that the firemen be asked to help. With an inhalator they worked for an hour, clearing out the baby's lungs.

WILLIS NAILS HIS CAMPAIGN FLAG TO MAST OF DRYS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—Replying to Senator Borah's questionnaire, Senator Willis of Ohio today declared he was for a dry plank in the Republican platform and for rigid observance of the eighteenth amendment.

"I have no hesitancy in saying," Senator Willis said, "that I favor incorporating in the next national Republican platform a plank specifically referring to the eighteenth amendment and pledging the candidates and the party to vigorous, faithful and effective enforcement of the amendment and the laws enacted to carry into effect the constitutional amendment."

Sailor, Told End Is Near, Goss Out to Sea to Die

[Copyright 1923 by The New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Commander Harold William Swinbank, English sailor, soldier and scientist, fulfilled his expressed wish by dying and being buried at sea, off the Azores. After a breakdown in health last summer he said: "If I don't recover, I would like to die at sea." He bade farewell to his friends and embarked with a doctor and a nurse on the Orkla. When the ship arrived at Madeira his doctor advised him he had only ten days to live, whereupon he booked passage to Valparaiso, Chile. He died on the way and was buried at sea.

WOMAN FINDS $50,000 BEQUEST IN OLD ENVELOPE

Seals Broken After Her Ex-Employer Dies.

Two sealed envelopes, which Mrs. Bertha Woll Roigne, 52 years old, 1242 South Sangamon street, had guarded ever since her former Cincinnati employer had entrusted them to her ten years ago with instructions that they be opened only at her death, were discovered yesterday to contain bequests to Mrs. Roigne, totaling nearly $50,000.

Dr. James Purcell Geppert, who gave Mrs. Roigne the envelopes, died on Jan. 11. News of his death reached Mrs. Roigne, who acted as the doctor's housekeeper and practical nurse for his patients from 1914 to 1919, from her sister in Cincinnati.

Note and Checks Found.

The sealed documents were taken from the strong box and sent to Cincinnati yesterday. A. J. Woll, a brother of Mrs. Roigne, presented them to Probate Judge William H. Lueders, who ordered them opened.

There was one judgment note for $12,720 payable to Miss Bertha Woll; another note for $10,000 and two checks totaling $19,719.

"I never dreamed of such a thing," Mrs. Roigne said last night when she was informed of her good fortune. "Dr. Geppert handed me the envelopes one day and I never gave them much thought, except that I believed they contained instructions about his funeral."

Brother May File Contest.

Mrs. Roigne left Dr. Geppert's employ in 1919 at the time of her marriage to Frank Roigne, who works as a glass cutter.

It is stated that the claims of Mrs. Roigne to the estate will be contested by William Geppert of Hudson, N. Y., a brother of Dr. Geppert, on the grounds that the gifts were made without consideration. The entire estate is appraised at $56,323.65.

GIBSON, SOCIAL LION, FACES JAIL ON FRAUD CHARGE

BY JOHN POWELL.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SHANGHAI, Feb. 10.—The state department at Washington was requested by officials here today to apprehend Preston Gibson of Washington, D. C., one time a Chicagoan, well known playwright, society man, and a descendant of Patrick Henry, against whom charges of fraud have been filed in the United States court of Shanghai.

Mr. Gibson, who was a lieutenant in the United States marines, is accused of altering a gold draft indorsed by Col. Henry C. Davis, commander of the marines here.

Claims Draft Was Raised.

According to information from official sources Col. Davis indorsed the draft for Mr. Gibson, thinking the amount was $200, but the draft was cashed at the American-Oriental bank here for $5,200. The draft was drawn on Mrs. L. M. White, care of the Riggs National bank, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Gibson, who had been in Shanghai about six months, left here for Japan on Jan. 25 aboard the Japanese ship Africa Maru, and is now en route to Vancouver, B. C., aboard the Canadian Pacific steamer Empress of Asia.

He is expected to land there Feb. 12. In addition to the forgery charge, Mr. Gibson also is charged with having defrauded local hotels with bad checks.

Married Marshall Field's Niece.

Mr. Gibson was accompanied by his wife, who was the fourth of a person, the first being Minna Field of Chicago, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page and the niece of Marshall Field. The second was Grace McMillan Jarvis, granddaughter of the late Senator James McMillan of Michigan, and the third was Mrs. Beatrice Rogers Benjamin Pratt, granddaughter of the late H. H. Rogers.

Mr. Gibson is the son of the late Senator Randall Lee Gibson of Louisiana, a Yale graduate and the author of many plays, books, and articles. He holds the Croix de Guerre, received for bravery during the world war.

GOLD MINE FIRE TRAPS 47; 5 DEAD; RESCUERS BUSY

Others in Pits Doomed, Watchers Fear.

BY ROBERT FARQUHARSON.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 10.—Forty-seven men who were trapped by flames in the Hollinger gold mine at Timmins, Ont., today are likely to perish. Little hope is held for rescuers reaching them in time to prevent suffocation. Five bodies have been recovered.

With flames sweeping the 500 foot level and dense smoke halting rescue work, it will be hours before the death toll is definitely known. Attempts are being made to rush air hose to the portion of the mine where survivors are supposed to be awaiting death. A thousand men were in the mine when the fire broke out, but all but the forty-seven made their way out.

Noah Timmins, president of the Hollinger mine, has arranged with the United States government for one of the special mine rescue cars equipped to cope with mine disasters. The car is being rushed from the Pittsburgh district by special train.

47 Trapped in Mine.

Conflicting reports of the number of men still in the mine are being received. First estimates put it at 100, but it has now been reduced to forty-seven officially. Hoists are still working, but the fire is raging and mine machinery may soon be crippled.

As far as can be learned, a minor explosion which ignited old powder boxes and rubbish was responsible for the disaster, the first major tragedy in northern Ontario's mining history.

Scattered powder, oil fumes, and glycerin added to the dense smoke.

"Dead" Restored to Life.

Ira Graham, listed at first as one of the dead, still lives. When his body was brought to the surface, doctors were satisfied that he had paid with his life for the search for gold. Closer examination, however, revealed a spark of life. A pulmonator was brought up. Three hours later Graham's name was erased from the list of dead.

Challenge to Duel Hurdled in Roumanian Parliament

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Feb. 10.—Unprintable epithets were exchanged between deputies of the government and of the opposition today during a continuance of the fight which broke up the session last night over the accusation by opposition that the government deputies were thieves. Mr. Popovic, national peasant, challenged the minister of public works to a duel.

Flames Shoot 180 Feet Into Air.

Everett, Mass., Feb. 10.—(AP)—With a concussion that jarred this city and was felt for many miles, ten large stills in the refining plant of the Beacon Oil company exploded today, causing heavy loss of life. Early tonight, the known dead number 11, but it was believed that other bodies lay covered in the red hot ruins. Fifty were injured.

The plant occupies a tract of fifty acres on the bank of the Mystic river in East Everett. The stills affected form one unit in a total of twenty-five in the plant. R. B. Kahle, president of the company, said that the explosion probably was caused by the failure of a low pressure still.

The explosion shattered windows for a wide area about the plant. The stills blew up singly or in pairs. Flames shot up to a height of eighty feet above the 100 foot structures, and dense smoke hung over the plant.

Four Children Burned to Death.

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Four children, of ages from eight years down to eight months, were burned to death today at Spring Gap, near here, while the mother of one of them left alone to visit a neighbor. The home of Winter Garland, father of the other three, was destroyed by the flames, thought to have started from an overheated stock.

RULES A GUN IN AUTO MAKES DRIVER GUILTY

Judge John H. Lyle, in imposing fines yesterday on two men accused of gun toting, announced a new rule to be followed in this court, which the police may will aid them materially in their effort to stop the practice of carrying revolvers in automobiles. The judge held that a person found with a weapon in an automobile, whether it be concealed or in sight, is guilty of possession of concealed weapons.

A fine of $100 was assessed against Leonard Dombranchas, 28 years old, Willow Springs. He said that he was only carrying the revolver from his garage to his home. The gun was in the side pocket of his automobile.

Found Guilty of Fatal Stabbing During Quarrel

Charles Ringmeier, 36 years old, 1637 Wright street, was found guilty of manslaughter last night by a jury in Judge John P. McGorty's court. The verdict carries a penalty of one to four years in the penitentiary. Testimony showed that on Sept. 4 the defendant stabbed Joseph Schuler to death during a quarrel over a $1 loan. Ringmeier pleaded self defense.

CAPT. BASS FOUND GUILTY; MAY FACE U.S. COURT ACTION

Prosecutors Discuss Rum Disclosures.

Possibility of federal court action was discussed by prosecutors yesterday against Capt. J. Leland Bass following his conviction by court martial of irregularities in the handling of confiscated liquor stored in the army warehouse here. The court martial verdict yesterday, which found Capt. Bass guilty of conduct unbecoming an army officer, fixed his sentence at dismissal from the army. The sentence becomes effective when the finding is approved in Washington.

United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and Assistant District Attorney Jacob I. Grossman, who have been watching the evidence in the Bass trial, were in conference for an hour following the verdict. "The matter is still under investigation," District Attorney Johnson said. "The government is interested in view of the statement that part of the liquor involved in the Bass case had been evidence in prohibition raids and will go into every detail of the matter."

Guilty on Four Counts.
Capt. Bass was found guilty on four of the ten specifications. On two of these four charges the army court ordered that words indicating an evil intent in the charges be stricken.

The finding of the court was read by Col. Howard R. Perry, infantry, president of the court.

The charges on which a verdict of guilty was returned are:

Shipment of twenty drums of alcohol to the 202d coast artillery, Broadway armory.

Causing the shipment of five boxes containing intoxicating liquors from the 202d coast artillery to the Pershing road government warehouse.

Causing to be packed in his household furnishings seven boxes, two of which contained ten gallons each of pure ethyl alcohol and the other five containing champagne, whisky, and other alcoholic liquors.

Making a false affidavit.

Final Action by President.

The court martial sentence is subject to review by Maj. Gen. William L. Sanders, commanding the Sixth corps area, the judge advocate general in Washington, D. C., and the President of the United States. Capt. Bass will continue under technical arrest pending the review.

Maj. Donald B. Sanger, trial judge advocate, announced yesterday that he had asked the federal authorities to take grand jury action for perjury against two defense witnesses. The witnesses, Nicholas Kozlowski and Joseph C. Zingie, testified at secret sessions of the court. The addresses given by the two were fictitious.

Capt. Bass rose from the ranks to a commission. After the armistice he had charge of the water transportation at Coblenz and was known as "the admiral of the Rhine." He has been in the army for 24 years. He is married and has one son.

RAID TWO STILLS; SEIZE TWO MEN.
Prohibition agents yesterday raided two stills and arrested two men. Jack Latalo was seized at 1940 West Congress street. Richard Martin, alleged owner, was taken into custody at 8811 South Dearborn street.

guardmen, but it was not a regular coast guard boat and it had no insignia to indicate its identity, according to most of the evidence.

Didn't Recognize Boat.

The skiff gave the boat a hail. John Brewer, Coral Gables, aboard the boat with Jones, testified they took the smaller craft for a high powered speed boat owned by a friend and decided to race it. The skiff opened fire, and Brewer said his party, intent on racing, heard no shots and did not realize they were being fired on until Jones cried, "I'm shot," and collapsed.

Meanwhile Boatwain Parry at the dock heard the firing. With Lowery and Kaslon he jumped into a faster boat than the skiff. This craft, too, it was testified, had no lights and showed nothing indicating it was a government boat.

Parry and his men caught up with the lighter and slower skiff, sent it back to the dock and took up the chase of the pleasure boat upon which were Jones and his party. The crafters ordered the pursued to stop and when they did not Boatwain Parry, so Lowery testified, gave the order "shoot into the boat."

So the coast guard opened up with rifles and presently the Jones boat came to a stop and the coast guard climbed aboard to find Jones in a heap on the starboard side, a great hole in his head from which he died a month later.

No Insignia Shown.

During the discussion with the lawyers, it was pointed out that the preponderant evidence was that no insignia had been shown, that the pursu-

FOES CONTENT CHICAGO WATER VICTORY WOULD PERIL LAKE SHIPPING

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—(Special.)—Counsel for Michigan, in a brief filed in the Supreme court today, contended that final victory for Chicago in the water diversion suits instituted by Wisconsin and other lake states would jeopardize the continued use of the great lakes as a highway of commerce.

The brief, which was filed by William W. Potter, attorney general of Michigan, in support of exceptions taken to the report of Charles E. Hughes, as special master, charged Chicago with unfairness, selfishness, and utter disregard for the rights of sister states as well as the federal government.

The Michigan attorney general contended that Chicago has no right to a water diversion from Lake Michigan and asserted that the court should grant the petitions of the six lake states that the water diversion should be stopped by injunction.

ing boats were not the coast guard type, but confiscated vessels taken from run runners, and that all this was in contravention of the requirement that the coast guard must take precautions to let the people know they are coast guard.

Further it was pointed out by the prosecution that nothing has been adduced to show the Jones boat was anything but a pleasure craft cruising around, nothing to indicate it was fleeing with a cargo of liquor. From this the prosecution argued that the coast guard had inflicted capital punishment, in effect upon Jones on mere suspicion that he might be a wrongdoer.

The lawyers portrayed the guard as stealing up in the dark of night with no lights in a disguised craft and giving no notice which could be heard that they were government officers, and then turning loose with the rifles.

BULLETIN.

Squads of police were searching the southwest section of the city early this morning for Samuel Baxter and John Burns, fugitive Indiana convicts, after J. W. Collins, 661 North Dearborn street, a waiter at the Beverly Gardens, 95th street and Western avenue, reported that he saw two men near the resort last night, whom he afterward identified from their pictures in a newspaper as the men sought by the Lafayette authorities. He said the pair drove up in an automobile and asked him where they could find a restaurant and he had a good look at them.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 10.—(AP)—A bloodstained overcoat appeared to provide the only new clew to the disappearance of Deputy Sheriffs John P. Grove and Wallace McClure and two prisoners, John Burns and Samuel Baxter, all of whom vanished Tuesday morning while on the way from Lafayette to the state reformatory at Pendleton, 70 miles east of here.

The coat was found Tuesday on a highway a mile and a half west of Lebanon by farmers and was turned over to the local authorities late today. Police attempted to find out if any of the missing men wore such a coat when they departed from Lafayette.

Inasmuch as Burns and Baxter were at the home of Otis Smith, an uncle of Burns at Danville, Ill., Tuesday forenoon, it is assumed the coat may provide an important clew, as the fleeing convicts would have had to travel a westbound road to cross the Wabash river and reach Danville.

Police believe the bodies of Grove and McClure may have been thrown into the Wabash river as the fugitives fled westward.

When Burns, Baxter and an accomplice robbed a café at West Point and carried off the cash register they threw the register into the Wabash river a few miles below this city.

Search for the deputy sheriffs and their prisoners was spread over the middle west tonight after Sheriff C. M. Johnston returned from a day of running down valueless clews in Indiana.

Photographs of the convicted men and descriptions of all four missing persons were sent to police departments throughout the central western states. Several radio stations also broadcast descriptions.

Early today Sheriff Johnston received a letter postmarked Marion, Ind., which stated that he would find the bodies of his deputies in a quarry at Kokomo, Ind. The letter, written with red and blue crayons, was unsigned.

A hurried trip to Kokomo and a search of quarries in that vicinity failed to substantiate the letter.

RENEWS ATTACK ON FEES PAID REALTY EXPERTS

Kirkland Charges Politics Took Rakeoff.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Further analysis was made yesterday of the evidence in the real estate expert suit, which the plaintiff contends calls for a decree of restitution of $1,500,000 to the city treasury by Mayor William Hale Thompson, George F. Harding, Michael J. Faherty, and the other defendants. Before Judge Hugo M. Friend, Attorney Weymouth Kirkland, chief counsel for the taxpayers, which started the suit as complainant taxpayer, continued his argument.

Mr. Faherty was pictured as the man who has borne the brunt of the expert scandal in the court battle. Mr. Faherty was depicted as one who, schooled in the Thompson-Lundin brand of politics, believed a little graft was necessary in municipal affairs, and so made it easy for the experts appraising land and buildings to collect the millions from the city treasury. Part of those millions, Mr. Kirkland argued, had found its way into the war chest of the political organization headed by the mayor.

Says Faherty Served Mayor.

"There is no proof in this case on which I could ask you as a judge or chancellor," he told Judge Friend, "to hold that any money did touch the hand of Mike Faherty. But he had a great many other ways of profiting. He was helping his chief. It overshadowed all else in the mind of Mike Faherty that he was helping the organization and helping the man whose word was law with him."

Speaking of Ernest H. Lyons and

ARTHUR S. MERIGOLD, who made partial restitution to the city and were dismissed as defendants in this suit, Mr. Kirkland said:

"Ernie Lyons, praying for a covenant not to be sued, is a confession on his part, that he could not possibly have earned those fees that were paid to him, through the combination of Faherty, Harding, and Thompson in 1920. He quit because it turned out and he knew it all the time, that he had been the collector of graft."

Tells of Mystery Payments.

"I am going to show you," Mr. Kirkland continued, "that Lyons books did not balance. I am going to show you that there was money paid to this organization long before the 15 per cent payments of Merigold started. Mr. Lyons' books were out of balance and at the end of 1921 some $50,000 had been paid to somebody, and who that somebody was did not show on the books of Ernest Lyons."

"What good did this tainted money do them? It burned and destroyed the hand that took it, as far as Merigold is concerned, and the same thing is true as to Lyons."

"Why did Koch and Brautigam perjure themselves before the grand jury? Because they wanted to protect Honest John Richert (former chairman of the city council finance committee)."

"I am going to prove to you that during 1920 and 1921, when these enormous sums of money were paid to Merigold, 40 per cent of which was going to Brautigam, that one-third of the 40 per cent went to John Richert, and that meant $33,000 at the end of January, 1921. I am going to prove to you that the books by which you could tell were destroyed by this contemptible little perjurer, Koch, so as to protect Honest John Richert before the grand jury."

Asks About Richert.

W. C. Graves of counsel for Thompson and Harding asked:

"Why was not he [Richert] made a party defendant to this suit?"

Mr. Kirkland offered to answer this question but said that the answer would take him outside the record of the case and the question was not pressed.

"I almost asked you that question several times," Judge Friend said.

"In 1923," Mr. Kirkland continued, "when some of them were being called before the grand jury, Lyons, Coffin, Brautigam, Koch and Walter, they came in and pleaded self-incrimination. If they had honestly earned those moneys, was there any reason on earth for any one of them pleading self-incrimination?"

"Do honest public officials, if they are innocent, stay out of the witness stand when they are charged with fraud?"

"It has been said here that the main charge against Thompson and Harding is that they failed to take the stand and that an inference arises from that failure."

Calls Fraud Main Charge.

"The main charge against William Hale Thompson and George F. Harding is that they helped to defraud the taxpayers of $1,500,000; that they diverted that much money; that without their aid, assistance, consent and connivance, $1,500,000 never could have been [to put it in plain English] stolen from the taxpayers. You have a right to consider an unfavorable inference, because they did not see fit to take the witness stand and explain these things away."

"If they were innocent, wild horses could not have kept them off the witness stand. Isn't it rather strange, if we believe the political history of Cook county, that for one who is so quick to make charges against others and call other people names in the heat of campaigns, isn't it strange that that person should content himself with profound silence?"

"If Faherty had not O. K'd the bills and signed the vouchers and the experts never could have gotten their money from the city controller."

Charges Fraud Within Fraud.

"If the experts had not made out their bills, some of them fraudulently, if they had not attempted to charge the city twice for the same work, why Faherty never could have O. K'd the bills."

"If Thompson had not left his lithographed signature on the warrants with the controller, if Thompson had not remained passive, if Thompson had not closed his eyes and blocked his ears to everything that everybody knew in this case and in the city hall, this conspiracy never could have been a success."

The argument will be continued next Tuesday.

WAGON DRIVER IS ROBBED.

Robert Canine, 24 years old, 514 West 44th place, wagon driver for a fish concern, was robbed of $20 in the rear of 1193 Hyde Park boulevard yesterday.

INDICATIONS ARE NAVAL BILL WILL BE PARED DOWN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—(Special.)—Indications are that the $60 million dollar naval strengthening bill will be pared down considerably by the house naval affairs committee before it is reported some time next week.

From comments made by committee members today it is apparent that a large number of the 25 submarines carried in the bill will be eliminated, while the number of aircraft carriers and destroyer leaders is virtually certain to be cut down.

Ranking members believe that at least 13 of the 25 cruisers deemed necessary by the navy department for "reasonable" defense will be retained. It is also considered certain that at least two of the five 13,600 ton aircraft carriers now in the measure will be built.

Secretary Kellogg's announcement that this country is ready to abolish submarine warfare if other nations take the same stand is said to be one of the factors operating against the authorization of a large number of submarines.

In good butter are concentrated great funds of health-giving sunshine

Doctors and nutritional authorities now know that growth and health in children are due largely to the presence, in their everyday diet, of certain valuable substances, known as vitamins A and D.

Fortunately, Nature has captured and concentrated in good, pure butter great funds of the precious rays of healthful sunshine. As a result, scientists tell us, good butter is rich in these important health-giving vitamins. As a further result, good butter enables your children to have these substances at every meal.

That is why the generous feeding of good butter to children is now widely urged. It not only helps them build healthy bodies, but also helps to combat rickets, anemia, colds and many childhood diseases.

In Blue Valley Butter these life-giving elements are abundantly present. For in making Blue Valley every scientific precaution has been taken to retain all the vital factors.

Years of scientific work by Prof. Otto F. Hunziker, in the famous Blue Valley Research Laboratories, together with careful selection and thorough pasteurization of all cream, have resulted in a butter of absolute safety and pronounced health qualities.

But try Blue Valley! See how your children love its delightful flavor. Also how it makes them thrive and grow.

Sold only in triple-wrapped packages.

TAXI ROBBERS SENT TO PRISON IN RECORD TIME

Two Sentenced 6 Days
After Their Arrest.

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Saville, burglar, sentenced to 1 year in the House of Correction; Charles Smith and Wayne Holden, robbers, sentenced to 1 year in life each in the penitentiary, by Judge William V. Brothers.

James Yeager, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the House of Correction by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Rivalling the speedy justice dispensed in Wisconsin and Michigan, the court machinery of Cook county yesterday sent two criminals to prison six days after their arrest. The men sentenced, Wayne Holden and Charles R. Smith, both 25 years old, were given terms of one year to life in the penitentiary. They confessed last Saturday that they had committed 25 robberies.

When indictments in four of the robbery cases were voted by the grand jury yesterday morning at 10 o'clock Assistant State's Attorney Edwin Spiro ordered full speed in having the documents returned promptly in court. This was accomplished by noon. At 3 o'clock Holden and Smith were brought before Chief Justice William V. Brothers of the Criminal court.

The men admitted their guilt and on motion of Assistant State's Attorney Lee La Roche, who obtained the original confessions, witnesses were summoned.

By 330 Judge Brothers had heard the testimony against the defendants and sentenced them. Warden Edward J. Fogarty of the county jail said he would soon have the men in prison.

Holden and Smith were specialists, they said, in the art of waylaying taxicab drivers and telephone collectors. Holden, a former milk wagon driver, knowing all the dark streets of the north side, would hire a taxicab to take him to one of these unlighted streets and then with the assistance of Smith, rob the driver, the court was told.

The two men were arrested Saturday through the suspicion of a taxicab driver, who was ordered to the neighborhood of several previous holdups. The chauffeur notified the police and they were waiting for the robbers.

ASK MURDER FOR MURDERING MURDER.

Relative of Lester Frasier, 16, of 328 Stone street, who left home a week ago, have asked police to search for him. He is described as 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighing 150 pounds. He wore a blue suit, gray cap, and blue handkerchief. It is thought he may have gone to St. Louis.

YOUNG'S WIFE SHOWS PACT TO SUPPORT CHILD

Lawyer Says Her Mate
Concealed Wealth.

Mrs. Annie M. Young, former show girl, yesterday came to the defense of her twin babies. Through her attorney, John Fruchti, she made public evidence intended to refute the allegation of her husband, Vincent Young, wealthy young impresario, that the children were not born as a result of their marriage.

The lawyer showed newspaper men an agreement between Young and his wife, dated June 28, 1921, five months after their secret marriage and three days before their separation.

Part of Agreement.
One paragraph of the document reads:

"The party of the second part [husband] agrees to pay to the party of the first part [wife] the further sum of $10 per week during each and every week for the support, maintenance and education of the child about to be born by the party of the first part."

and of which the party of the second part is the father, for and during the life of said child as about to be born."

In another paragraph, Young, whose income is listed at $500,000 a year, agreed to pay his wife $50 a week for the remainder of her life, unless she remarried following a divorce.

Asks Separate Maintenance.
Attorney Fruchti said the full contract will be made a part of an amended bill for separate maintenance to be filed for Mrs. Young with a few days. The purpose of the amendment is to ask the court to set aside the agreement.

"She is entitled to more money than the contract provides," the lawyer explained his new move. "We will ask the court to annul the agreement because she was not in a physical condition at the time to enter into a contract, because she was deceived regarding the wealth of her husband, and because the contract is illegal on its face."

Young, now in Europe with his lawyer, has announced he will file a cross-bill for an annulment on his return from abroad next month.

WOMAN LEAPS FROM WINDOW.

Leda Graham, colored, 25 years old, suffered a heart attack yesterday when she leaped from a third floor window at her home, 4229 Wisconsin avenue. She reported that her husband was trying to stab her at the time.

BUNCO PARLORS KNOCKED OUT BY LICENSE BOARD

City Permits Refused for Women's Game.

Ruling that commercial buncos is undesirable, if not unlawful, the city revenue commission by a unanimous vote yesterday rejected a plan to license some 500 or more of the feminine gaming parlors said to be doing a flourishing business in Chicago.

As an outcome of the decision, it is believed, thousands of women who patronize the resorts, spending afternoons and evenings shaking dice for prizes, will be compelled to seek some other amusement or stay at home. So popular had the buncos become, the authorities were told, that many women virtually abandoned their husbands and children in order to play. The commission's ruling, in effect, gives the police the right to raid any or all of the parlors not conducted in regularly licensed entertainment places such as cafes and assembly halls.

"We are going to knock over every buncos parlor, in a flat or backroom, which shows any evidence of gambling or which does not strictly conform to all the health, fire, and building department ordinances," Commissioner of Police Michael Hughes announced.

Evil Conditions Revealed.
Official action against the buncos racket, ending with yesterday's ruling, started a month ago, after Tribune news revealed the spread of the game, especially on the near west side. City Prosecutor Frank Paska ordered an investigation, and his men reported that they found the parlors packed with women, unsanitary conditions, and in some places babies sleeping on tables and the floor.

FREED ON CHARGES OF GIRL.
Henry Peters, 24 years old, 7417 66th street, Sunnyside, who was accused of snatching two young girls, was released by Police Magistrate Heron yesterday when relatives asserted he was a sufferer from a nervous disorder and promised to be responsible for his future actions.

HICKMAN HEARS SENTENCE TODAY; SPEED HIS APPEAL

State Hopes High Court Will Rush Case.

BY GEORGE SHAFER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 10.—(Special.)—In contrast to statements from the counsel of William Edward Hickman, who declared that it may be months before the legal tape unravels to permit the youth's execution for murdering Marion Parker, was an opinion from Attorney General U. S. Webb, who proffered the resources of his office to District Attorney Asa Koyes of Los Angeles in combating an appeal. Mr. Webb said the Hickman appeal may be given speedy consideration by the Supreme court.

Hickman's attorneys, Jerome Walsh and Richard Cantillon, said they probably would take an appeal tomorrow when Hickman appears before Judge J. J. Trabucco for sentence on the basis of the jury verdict, guilty and sane.

Johns with Death Watch.

Hickman joked with his death watch placed in his cell today by the district attorney and Jailer Frank Dewar. Hickman said he expected to be hanged and boasted to jail visitors that "I can walk the thirteen steps up the gallows at San Quentin without a tremor."

Two of the jurors who found Hickman sane gave details of their deliberation.

Six Minutes to Decide Case.

"It took three times as long to elect a foreman of the jury as to convict Hickman," declared J. A. Ruggies, the foreman. "We spent only six minutes balloting for the two verdicts." (The jury found Hickman sane and therefore guilty, on one count of kidnapping and one count of murder.) Mrs. Elizabeth Bullis, jury woman, said, "Judge Trabucco plans to call a few witnesses, he said, for testimony before him, before he decides which of the two possible sentences, death or life imprisonment, is consistent with the verdict."

The young defendant laughed aloud with relief when court adjourned. The strain of the six weeks' hearing had plainly told upon him. He did not take the stand in his own defense although it was believed he desired to do so. Four attorneys, it was said, advised him against testifying.

In defense, Hill's counsel presented

HILL TRIAL ENDS; ARGUMENTS TO COME NEXT WEEK

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 10.—(Special.)—The trial of Harry Hill, 22 years old, charged with the murder of his mother, was ended this afternoon with the exception of final arguments which will begin Monday. The case will be given to the jury in Judge Joe A. Davies' court next Wednesday.

The young defendant laughed aloud with relief when court adjourned. The strain of the six weeks' hearing had plainly told upon him. He did not take the stand in his own defense although it was believed he desired to do so. Four attorneys, it was said, advised him against testifying.

In defense, Hill's counsel presented sixty-one witnesses whose testimony tended to furnish an alibi for the youth and to point out that he had a good reputation in his home town.

In rebuttal, Special Prosecutor Andrew J. O'Connor and State Attorney Russell O. Hansen today called two witnesses to the stand in an attack on the testimony of two defense witnesses who had declared they saw Mrs. Hill alive on Aug. 13, nine days after she was supposed to have been slain. This rebuttal testimony was that defense witnesses had previously asserted they were not certain of the date they saw Mrs. Hill alive.

Prosecutor Hansen has asked that the boy be sent to the electric chair if found guilty of the murder.

Writes He Killed Mrs. Hill.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—"I killed Mrs. Eliza Hill, buried her body and then robbed her home and escaped," was the gist of a letter received today by John Underwood, local chief of police, and signed "George Leo Honely." The letter said the writer would be dead by his own hand. It is considered the act of a crank.

KLAN ISSUE IS HEAVY FACTOR IN JACKSON'S TRIAL

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 10.—(Special.)—When the trial of Gov. Ed Jackson, charged with attempting to bribe his predecessor in office, Warren T. McCray, adjourned this evening, a jury to try the executive was near completion.

The question of Jackson's affiliation with or friendship for the Klan was the paramount one in the questioning of talesmen and Jackson's associations with D. C. Stephenson, former Klan dragon and politician, were specifically discussed. Stephenson, who was the principal of the seventeen-month investigation of charges of political corruption in Indiana, now is in state prison serving a life sentence for murder of a young woman.

Prosecutor William Remy announced today that he is investigating a report that one of his star witnesses, Robert Lyons of Richmond, former Klan leader, was ill in a Dayton, O., hospital. Lyons was supposed to have been returning here from Washington to testify.

Other state witnesses, it has been announced, will be McCray, who is now on parole from the Atlanta federal penitentiary where he was sentenced for using the mails to defraud; William P. Evans, son-in-law of McCray, who resigned as prosecutor here when McCray came under court investigation; and Fred Robinson, former state purchasing agent.

The indictment against Jackson charges that he conspired with George V. Coffin, city and county Republican chairman here; Robert L. Marsh, his former law partner, both of whom are under indictment, and with Stephenson to offer a $10,000 bribe to McCray, then governor, to select a man of their choice to succeed Evans as prosecutor. Instead, McCray appointed Remy.

REBELS FROLIC AS MARINES NAP 200 YARDS AWAY

Sandino Threatens War in Nicaraguan Capital.

BY LOUIS ROSENTHAL.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
[Copyright: 1928: By The Chicago Tribune.]
MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 10.—While the company of marines stationed at Jinotega slept peacefully last Saturday night, Gen. Augusto Sandino's rebel army of 200 men was royally entertained within 200 yards of the Americans' quarters in a typical roadside resort on the outskirts of Jinotega. A typical native celebration, or "peranda," was given by Gen. Sandino's sympathizers. All those attending danced, drank and made merry until early Sunday morning.

The Sandinistas arrived near Jinotega early in the morning Saturday from San Rafael del Norte, where mine aviators had seen them on Friday. They slept in the brush during the day, and then entered Jinotega, unarmed, for the prearranged celebration. Gen. Sandino, who does not drink, did not attend.

"Financed by Mexicans," the Sandinistas said they resented the term "bandits" used in the American press, and that their desire was to attack Managua and Managua, the Nicaraguan capital. They said Gen. Sandino expected to get supplies during a march through Puerto Cabezas, on the east coast. Gen. Sandino, they asserted, received $25,000 a month from Mexican sources.

As Gen. Sandino's army now is moving at night and sleeping during the day in the jungle fastnesses alongside the mountain trails, the marine airplanes are unable to discover them.

Threatens War in Capital.
MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Regarding his trip to the mountain headquarters of Gen. Sandino at San Rafael del Norte, Carleton Beals, American magazine writer, said: "I was escorted from Tegucigalpa, the capital of Honduras, by a Sandino general and an Indian guide, who avoided the Honduran troops on the Nicaraguan frontier and landed me in the first Sandino outpost in Limon, Nueva Segovia. I went unarmed toward El Chipote, where Gen. Sandino provided me with an armed escort of thirty men, who conducted me on a four day trip to Sandino's headquarters at San Rafael del Norte."

"Sandino declared he could sustain himself indefinitely and that he would continue fighting as long as American marines remained in Nicaragua. He also said that the American public may expect armed developments in Managua itself within a few weeks."

PLAN FOR LEAGUE OF AMERICAS IS VOTED DOWN, 12-6

Only Smaller Lands
Back Carb on U. S.

United States to withdraw from Nicaragua and Haiti, to restrict our measures for the protection of the Panama canal and otherwise to curb the policies of the "colossus of the north."

When it came to a showdown South America failed the authors of this scheme. The more important Latin American countries perceived that there was almost as much dynamite in the plan for them as for the United States.

Latin Fear One Another.
Chile and Peru could not view with equanimity a Pan-American union clothed with political powers stepping in to settle the Tacna-Arica dispute. Argentina and Brazil, intensely jealous of each other, balked at an arrangement which in case of a dispute between them would place them at the mercy of Latin American politics and racial and cultural prejudices.

The most eloquent advocate of the Yarela plan was Enrique Olaya Herrera, Colombian ambassador to the United States, who is chairman of the committee. He resigned the chair to make an impassioned appeal for the conferment of political powers on the union. He said the relations of the American nations lack a basis of frankness and that Europe is giving the new world a lesson in this respect. "The American nations are jealous of each other," he said. "They do not lay their problems frankly before each other. The Pan-American union could prevent bloodshed in this hemisphere if clothed with sufficient authority. It ought to be consecrated to the work of preserving peace. Why should we be afraid to give it the powers necessary to this great end?"

Argentina to Drop Demands.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 10.—(AP)—It was learned tonight on what is considered the most reliable authority that Argentina will not insist on the demand of her delegation at the Pan-American conference at Havana that the question of economic factors be included in the preamble of the projected Pan-American union convention. New instructions were dispatched tonight to Dr. Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine delegation at Havana, who has brought about a deadlock in the Pan-American conference by his advocacy of the removal of tariff barriers among the American republics.

The action of the foreign office followed upon a series of conversations which the American ambassador, Robert W. Ells, and Foreign Minister Gallardo had yesterday.

U. S. May Build Home for Its Minister in Canada

MONTREAL, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Expectation that the United States would erect both a residence for its minister and an office building for the legation staff in Ottawa was voiced by Frank B. Kellogg, United States secretary of state, when he stopped off here on his return trip to Washington from Canada's capital.

MEXICAN WAR ON REBELS SPREADS TO THREE STATES

BY JOHN CORNYN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 10.—Due to the vigorous government campaign, the so-called Catholic rebels in the state of Jalisco are retreating to the state of Aguascalientes.

Heavy detachments of federal forces were pouring into the little mountainous state today in the wake of the retreating rebels.

Other bands of rebels have overrun the state of Guanajuato, the center of the Catholic struggle more than a year ago. Guanajuato also is exceedingly mountainous. Two military trains carrying cavalry, mountain cannon, and airplanes, steamed into Guanajuato early today, and a few hours later the troops were marching after the insurgents, who retreated to the surrounding hills, following brief skirmishes. Regular troops continue to move through the rebel country. They carry heavy military guards.

Gen. Claude Fox, whose father is an American, had a cavalry fight with rebels yesterday at Puente de Guadalupe, state of Jalisco. The insurgents, after a two hour battle, fled to the hills, leaving numerous prisoners who were court-martialed and shot.

The arrest of alleged Catholic plotter by government soldiers continues in the various interior cities and towns. Catholic objects of worship, taken secretly from churches by Catholic agents in contravention of the law, are being seized on charges of being illegally held and used to violate the law regulating church worship and the registration of priests. Police agents today said the property of this sort seized from Catholics by the police in the City of San Luis Potosi alone in the last week is worth more than $30,000 pesos (about $100,000).

Three Catholic women of prominent families were arrested in Zamora, state of Michoacan, and brought here this morning, charged with carrying on revolutionary propaganda.

Calls in Cops When Pals Beat Him to Robbing Girl

William Placheta, 35 years old, 3407 Seville avenue, Berwyn, yesterday asked the police to arrest two friends. He said they had double-crossed him in a plan to rob his sweetheart, Miss Mary Rohrer, 25 years old, 2454 Indiana avenue, of an automobile, $150, and a fur coat. The friends, Robert Mitchell and Charles Svoboda, both of 1409 Lombard avenue, Berwyn, were caught at the young woman's home. Placheta also was taken into custody. Miss Rohrer formerly was a maid in the home of Judge Emanuel Miller.

MOTHERS HILL, SEWER SON HERE.
Police yesterday were asked to search for a R. E. Fisher of Kansas City, who was believed to have come to Chicago several months ago. It was stated his mother is dangerously ill.

Fireproof Garage Space for Each
Apartment on the Premises, if Desired

Some of the Advantages of Owning
Your Own Apartment

- ★ It enables you to own a home for a smaller investment than by any other plan. The average lot for an individual home in this exclusive neighborhood costs more than an apartment in The Cranston.
- ★ The expense of maintaining an apartment (taxes, janitor service, insurance, coal, repairs, etc.) is much less than its rental value, or the expense of maintaining an individual home.
- ★ It gives you the comfort and satisfaction of living in a beautiful, high-class district, and makes you an owner instead of a tenant. You acquire a definite property value for money that otherwise you would pay out as rent.
- ★ It enables you to participate in the financial profit of increasing values, eliminates annoyance and expense of moving, stops the landlord's profit, agents' commission and excessive decoration costs. These expenses are always passed on to the rent payer, but are unnecessary under our co-operative ownership plan.

Distinctive Features in The Cranston
Unobstructed view—filtered water—light and air in abundance—latest safety automatic elevators—large attractive lobbies—fireproof garage—bath for each bedroom—private garden court—electrical refrigeration.

Many other special features may be seen in our model apartment, decorated and furnished by John A. Colby and Sons.

CABINET MEMBER TELLS AIMS OF CHILEAN REGIME

Order and Economy High Points in Program.

Enriquez Balmaceda, minister of the interior in President Ibanez's cabinet, Chile, son of one of Chile's great presidents, and a man born to the political struggle which culminated in the election of Gen. Ibanez last year, is written for The Tribune an account of the evolution of the present Chilean government, as well as its aims.

ENRIQUEZ BALMACEA.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 10.—The principal feature of the Chilean government in power is, without any doubt, the evolution from the most advanced parliamentary system to a centralized, strong and moral presidential regime. President Balmaceda, my father, went down in 1891 fighting for these principles, and from that time nearly forty years ago, a serious struggle has been in power, where the professional politician, unscrupulous but useless, was the real boss of the public services, corrupting them to an extent truly antagonistic to a republic like ours, formerly a real model of Hispano-America.

The new government has returned to the old moral system, and in the few months it has obtained such happy results that all have recognized a genuine complete reconstruction of the country.

Supported by Public.

President Ibanez has the pleasure and fortune of being one of the pioneers in his movement of salvation, and as well earned reward of his patriotic devotion he was raised to the presidential chair by the enthusiastic support of public opinion.

A great security and harmony has never been known in industrial activities. The social welfare department has been created and the working classes know a real life and due support for their necessities. We have in force the most advanced social legislation, which assures to the workers complete physical and moral well-being. Communism has disappeared. The true position is reflected in national economy. The regular functioning of the Banco Central has assured stability of exchange and a firm standard of economic life. The creation of the general central office (i. e., the budget commission) has forever regulated the administration of the revenues and the expenditures of the republic.

The activities of our government are reflected in foreign financial opinion. The Chilean bonds have risen remarkably in value and foreign capitalists are returning to invest in Chilean industrial activities.

Nitrate Industry Gains.

The nitrate industry, the principal element of Chilean public wealth, furnishes one of the clearest proofs of the clever government policies; after a crisis of long duration nearly all of the works have been reestablished, their property insured, and markets reconquered and increased.

A vast program of public works, carefully prepared by the president, has been presented to congress and promises Chile a new period of reproductive investments. The port works at Antofagasta and Iquique form the first steps of this program of support to commerce and industry.

Public education has received preferential attention of the president, and has been reorganized.

With a confident spirit we are looking forward to strengthening our undertakings according to the highest ideals of public welfare and patriotism, which are the bases of the presidential program. This program can be condensed in these short words: public order, rigid administrative morality, discipline of the popular classes, and a high patriotic spirit of cooperation by all citizens.

TROLLEY KILLS AGED MAN.

Edward Amundson, 83 years old, 3 South St. Louis avenue, was fatally injured by a Lawrence avenue street car at Sawyer avenue yesterday and died in the Swedish hospital.

Black Tom island explosion in New Jersey in 1916. The munitions were destined for Russia.

The note, dated to America on Feb. 6, in English, says:

"According to information reaching the union of soviet socialist republics, the United States district court in southern New York has passed judgment against the Lehigh Valley railroad, ordering that company to compensate the owners for the munitions destroyed at Black Tom.

Belonged to Czarist Regime.

"The munitions included explosives belonging to the former Russian imperial and provisional governments. Compensation for the destroyed property was paid to Serge Ughet, styling himself as a representative of the former Russian government.

"The compensation was paid on the strength of correspondence exchanged in July, 1927, between the United States treasury department and M. Ughet. Taking into consideration the fact that M. Ughet had no authority from the present government of the state previously known as the Russian empire, the soviet government protests against the payment to a private person of money belonging to the former Russian treasury, application of which to any account can be made only with the sanction of the sole lawful owner of such money, namely soviet Russia.

"The soviet government considers the payment of the sum to M. Ughet an irregular act, reserving the right of putting a claim for the sum against the United States government.

$364,184 PAID TO ENVOY.

The amount of $364,184.62 was paid to the United States court last December by the Lehigh Valley Railroad company in settlement of damages suffered by Russia through the Black Tom explosion. It was ruled that M. Ughet should receive the money.

Assistant United States Attorney Coleman explained that the course agreed upon by M. Ughet was to turn the check over to Countert Brothers, counsel for Russia in the litigation, who were to take their fees out of the amount and transfer the remainder to the United States treasury, to reduce old Russia's debt to the United States.

3 RAIL OFFICIALS FACE CELLS IN FIGHT ON UNION.

Houston, Tex., Feb. 10.—(AP)—The federal court injunction, which union leaders have vigorously opposed as a weapon used against labor in industrial disputes, brought three officials of a railroad face to face with jail terms here today for a slight wage on the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson gave three executives of the Southern Pacific lines of Texas and Louisiana the choice of occupying jail cells for an indefinite stay or obeying his decree disestablishing a "company union" and making the brotherhood the official labor body of the 3,500 clerical employees of the road in the two states.

H. L. Lull, G. S. Wald, and J. G. Torian are the defendants in the contempt proceedings.

ACCUSED BY WOMAN.

Accused of attempting to attack Mrs. Beatrice Berger, 4217 Lake Park avenue, when she was showing him a room yesterday, Harry Pappas, 25, of 4087 Ellis avenue was arrested by Hyde Park police.

QUESTION RIGHT OF AUTOISTS TO USE CAR TRACKS

Officials of Surface Line Defend Patrons.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

In the interest of street car patrons who pay for four and a half million miles each day in Chicago, officials of the surface lines are questioning the propriety of using the track paving for motor traffic.

It is pointed out that while the motorist is paying taxes, license, and fuel of many kinds for the purpose of obtaining proper automobile traffic facilities, and is receiving extremely little for them, the fact remains that the street car track pavement is paid for by the car riders and that they should not be subjected to the dangers and delays incident to swerving the trolley cars with motor vehicles.

Control 500 Miles of Pavement. The surface lines have built, and are clean and maintain, about 500 miles of double track pavement. The street car riders are entitled to the use of these facilities because they have paid for their cost—about $32,000,000, spent since 1907.

The question that arises in the mind of the motorist who pays the state license fee, the city a wheel tax, the county, and state a personal property tax, the county and state a gas tax, besides his general taxes that go to the park districts, mostly for roads and kindred facilities, is where the street car riders are getting their money from. He is paying for the street car tracks, which are built and maintained by the street car companies, which are not subject to the same taxes as the motorist.

Auto Taxes Go Elsewhere. The money paid by Chicago automobilists to the various government agencies as special taxes for motorists is largely spent for the building and maintenance of roads in the city and state. Although the Chicago automobilists are paying nearly 30 percent of the state license fees, which ultimately are to defray the cost of building the $60,000,000 and $100,000,000 bond issue systems, the city of Chicago has hardly received a mile of paved street in return. It is the finances over 90 percent of the state highway expenditures and only recently has been getting county road construction within the city limits.

Although Chicago automobilists are paying huge sums for highway facilities, said Maj. G. A. Quinlan, county highway superintendent, "they are compelled to do a great deal of their traveling over pavements paid for by those who ride the street cars."

"Only Lanes Open to Autos." It may not be just and equitable to the street car patrons, but the fact remains that the money paid in by Chicago automobilists is expended for motor traffic facilities outside the city.

"The element of danger, however, exists for those who must or prefer to use street cars, when motor cars travel on street car streets."

"Not only is there danger to passengers boarding and alighting from cars, but the loss of time through congestion and accidents is vast. The ideal situation would be the exclusion of motor traffic from the car tracks."

Loss Many Hours Daily. According to statistics of the surface lines, the average daily loss of time to street car riders due to stalled vehicles upon their tracks is nine hours. This does not take into consideration any delays of fewer than five minutes. As most of the motor cars are of less than five minutes' duration, the bulk of the congestion and consequent loss of time is not reported.

Through the park systems the Chicago resident motorists have been provided with park boulevards paid for by direct taxation. The majority of city streets, however, are not adequate for motor traffic.

One instance of through streets which are almost impassable, it is pointed out, is Roosevelt road. This is one of the most direct and convenient routes for motor traffic in the city, yet its pavement almost prohibits congestion traffic.

CUBA'S GREATEST CROWD CHEERS AS LINDY GETS KEYS

Havana Pays Special Honors to Flyer.

HAVANA, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Crowds as within the memory of Havana auto officials Cuba never has seen before, paid a noisy tribute to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh this afternoon. Mayor Gomez presented the American flyer with the keys to the city, and expressed the wish he would avail himself of its every offer.

Also Gets Gold Medal. An hour before the ceremony of the keys this morning, Col. Lindbergh had received the gold medal of the Havana province, presented him by Gov. Yriarte, who told him that all Havana province, and the city of Havana, thanked him for the honor of his visit and hoped that he might find his stay pleasant, to which Col. Lindbergh replied that it had been one of the most pleasant experiences of his life and one he would always remember.

Col. Lindbergh made a short flight over Havana and surrounding districts this afternoon in one of the planes of the Pan-American Airways company. He had as passengers Ambassador and Mrs. Judah and their twin daughters, Catherine and Ann, four and a half years of age.

He was the guest tonight at a banquet given by President Machado at the National theater, where the grand the Pan-American Airways company of Céspedes was bestowed on him.

It is Col. Lindbergh's plan to leave Havana at dawn Monday, flying directly to St. Louis in one of the longest nonstop ventures of his entire Pan-American tour.

Will Fly Old Chicago Route. Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[U.P.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, transatlantic hero, will fly his old air mail route, Chicago to St. Louis, on Feb. 20 and 21 at his own request, Postmaster General New announced today.

To celebrate the occasion the post office has ordered that all mail carried by the "lone eagle" be stamped with a special cancellation die which will read:

"Lindbergh again flies the air mail." These words will be around a horse-shoe emblem, the city of Chicago emblem will be the name of the air mail route—Chicago-St. Louis.

MAKE BUILDINGS HOUSE CARS OF TENANTS, IS PLAN. An amendment to the building code requiring automobile storage space in every new building, adequate for the cars of its occupants, was proposed yesterday by Leslie J. Sorensen, city traffic engineer, as another step in the street congestion problem.

The jump no parking ordinance, according to Mr. Sorensen, has proved that curb storage in downtown districts is a thing of the past. With growing use of automobiles, he believes, the next logical step is to house them inside of buildings.

Street widenings, double decking, better traffic control, and no parking rules will be the means of keeping automobiles moving, but what about those which stop? he asked. "It's a question of either big downtown garages or storage space within other buildings or both."

The traffic engineer announced that he will take up the suggested building code amendment with Building Commissioner Christian Paschen and with the traffic committee of the city council. Such a measure, if adopted, he explained, would not be retroactive, but would apply only to buildings to be constructed in the future.

RUTH ELDER AND PARTY LOST FOR 3 HRS. IN SKY; LAND

Stinson Brings Plane Down in Indiana.

(Picture on back page.) Lost above clouds and unable to catch a glimpse of the earth, Miss Ruth Elder and party, en route from Chicago to Detroit, late yesterday flew for hours at random before Eddie Stinson, veteran pilot, could make a forced landing near Hartford City, Ind., more than 100 miles off his course and about 175 miles from Chicago and 200 miles from Detroit.

Stinson made a perfect landing, swooping down out of the clouds over the farm of John Wise, a mile from Hartford City. As he and Miss Elder and her party stepped from the Stinson-Detroit, designed by the veteran of the air, he said he had flown for several hours seeking a "hole" in the thick mist that enveloped the plane and that when he finally saw one he had darted eastward through it.

Two Other Women in Party. With the pilot and Miss Elder were Mrs. Connor, wife of Maj. J. A. Connor, head of the Detroit Flying club, Mrs. Beane Moton Garner, chairman of the Detroit branch of the National Woman's party, and Oscar A. Doob, Detroit theater owner.

The plane took off from the Municipal airport in Chicago at 2:55 p. m., expecting to traverse the 277 air miles to Detroit in an hour and forty minutes. It landed in Hartford City at 5:15 p. m.

Once during the long sojourn in the blanket of mystic white atmosphere that folded them in from all sides, Stinson attempted a dive through to the earth. He only succeeded in accumulating some 750 pounds of ice on his wings and had to arise again.

Plane Is Not Damaged. The plane was undamaged in the landing on the farm and will take off for Detroit early this morning. Miss Elder arrived in Chicago from Hollywood over the Santa Fe railroad. Miss Elder said she had some film tests taken while in the motion picture city on the Pacific coast.

The traffic engineer announced that he will take up the suggested building code amendment with Building Commissioner Christian Paschen and with the traffic committee of the city council. Such a measure, if adopted, he explained, would not be retroactive, but would apply only to buildings to be constructed in the future.

"Better Angels," by R. H. L., Is Tender Story of Lincoln

By Fanny Butcher.
"Better Angels," by Richard Henry Little, (Minton Balch).
We have a special contribution for Lincoln's birthday this year. Mr. Little's "Better Angels," and if it isn't destined to take a place beside Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews' "The Perfect Tribute" I am the world's poorest prophet. Mrs. Andrews' little classic has long been the perfect little Lincoln book. "Better Angels" might likewise be called that. It is a simple, tender little story told by an old Negro mammy who "knew Massa Lincoln" perhaps better than many of his friends. She tells of the time that she was told to cook the most elegant dinner possible for the visit of the President of the United States and how she gave him common food because she knew that everybody else helped him with delicacies and that a man like the kind of food he was brought up on.

She made a great hit with the President, and he came often to the regimental mess where she was the cook—always telling her that if she wanted a place in the cabinet she could choose her seat. The time came when she dared to use the influence which she would never have used for herself, and in that incident lies the real story of "Better Angels," a deeply tender one of the man who had never lost his love for the girl who died, Ann Rutledge, and who was touched, after all else had failed, by the sight of a young girl who loved a boy who was doomed to be shot.

The story isn't a true one. But it is almost truer than any factual incident, for it is the very soul of Abraham Lincoln interpreted by something he most certainly might have done. Mr. Little wrote it long ago, and it was discovered by Carl Sandburg in the files of old newspapers that he went through in his search for material for his Lincoln biography. It was copied from one end of the country to the other at that time, but during these years it has been forgotten. Mr. Sandburg was so impressed by it that he insisted that Mr. Little publish it as a little book, and he has written an introduction explaining how he found it and how it was written.

"Lincoln and the Railroads," by John W. Starr, (Dodd Mead).
A phase of the career of Abraham Lincoln which has been little discussed in Lincoln's connection with the railroads. He was growing up when the first lines were pushing their way through the middle west. As a green legislator in Illinois he helped formulate the railroad legislation which went into the law of the state not too wise, that legislation, so experts say, for economic.

THE RAILSPITTER

Drawing of Abraham Lincoln by Philip Koppell on cover of "Better Angels." These new books about the rail splitter are reviewed today.

As a rising lawyer some of his best clients were the railroads, although at times he appeared against them. He was tempted with an offer from the New York Central which, if he had accepted it, would have changed his entire political career. He was a guiding spirit behind the first line in the far west, the Union Pacific, and he helped to determine its gauge. That gauge light was one of the famous ones of industrial history. All of the lines were building tracks any distance apart that suited their fancy. His work for the standardization of the gauge was entirely successful and the Union Pacific gauge became the standard gauge of the country and made possible the use of cars interchangeably among the lines. The present railroads turned their historic files over to Mr. Starr for the preparation of this interesting volume.

"Four Speeches by Abraham Lincoln," with an introduction by Earl Wellington Wiley, (Ohio State University Press).
It would seem that no line of Lincoln's writing or speaking could still remain unpublished, but Mr. Wiley has found four speeches which have been hitherto unpublished or unknown. The longest of them, the speech which Lincoln delivered before the Scott Club in Springfield in August, 1855, Mr. Wiley says has been accessible for years in the files of the Illinois Historical Society, but no one has ever printed it. Herndon mentions it and Lamson quotes from it generously, but other biographers and compilers of Lincolniana have entirely disregarded it, deliberately, Mr. Wiley thinks, because it shows Lincoln as a petty personality—plunger.

Miss Mayo's Book Brings Replies by Leaders in India

"A Son of Mother India Answers," by Dhan Gopal Mukherji, (Dutton).
What might almost be called the official answer of the Indian race to Katherine Mayo's "Mother India" is a little book by Dhan Gopal Mukherji, official not in the sense that it bears any national stamp but in the sense that Mukherji has gathered together the replies of all of the most prominent Indians who have made any answer to "Mother India" and has related them. The gist of the replies seems to be that Miss Mayo has made statements concerning the social relations of the country she visited either without sufficient foundation or without naming the sources from which she obtained her statistics.

At least one of her interviews is misquoted, he says, quoting Mahatma Gandhi, who declared that Miss Mayo had not reported him correctly. Mukherji says that he does not question the fact that there is much needless suffering among women in India, but he—and all of India—objects most forcefully to the statement about the age at which Indian girls become mothers. Tagore is grossly misrepresented, he declares. India is not, as she is said to be, a nation in which the women are to be brought to the state of a woman like a book like "Mother India." Then he suggests the form that the new edition of the book should take. After telling India how wonderful she is in various phases of her civilization, he suggests that the subjects of the wished for reforms be approached carefully, that all statements be labeled as to their exact source, and in that way, perhaps, the reformers of India may get some cooperation out of "Mother India."

Ludwig, Visiting Here, Looks Like Poetic Professor

Ernst Ludwig might well be said to be the most popular biographer in America at the moment. Certainly no "lives" have sold in the astounding numbers that his "Napoleon" and his "Bismarck" have sold, but no one the less widely read. "Genius and Character" and "William Hohenzollern." And we were all really curious about him, for he has attained at a comparatively early age international recognition. He arrived in Chicago on Thursday and he was the guest of the Society of Midland Authors that day at luncheon.

All of his pictures make him look like a movie hero. He really looks rather like a poetic professor with a good tailor but a barber who is easily fooled. A very high forehead is outlined with black hair which is worn full, almost downing, without actually being much beyond the average length. And eyes, very keen, but neither sharp nor cynical, are what you remember about the face. Perhaps it is the eyes which give the photographs the movie hero air, for at a distance there is a languorousness about them which disappears the moment the ten feet between you is lessened to nine—and that is rather strange, for it is usually the opposite that happens. The poetical professor there is a very beautiful Mrs. Ludwig, with perfect poise to supply the missing words. For Dr. Ludwig speaks English with great fluency. However, like the intelligent foreigner always, he says exactly what he wants to say, though haltingly. He did not mention the names of any American writers widely read there. The real bond between Germany and America, however, he felt could best be cemented by a man who was known, but not known, appreciated but not appreciated, either in his own country or here—Goethe. He is to publish this fall in the United States an edited edition of a life of Goethe which he wrote ten years ago, he said. He is gathering material while he is here for a life of a great American statesman. He confessed that the statesman's name was Woodrow Wilson.

MARINES IN CHINA. APPEAL TO TRIBUNE FOR READING MATTER

Now and then, when the warring factions in China halt their campaigns for a little rest, it becomes dull for Uncle Sam's marines on the other side of the Pacific.

To prove it, three of them, with time hanging heavily on their hands, have asked The Tribune's aid in getting some reading matter. They requested that the following message be published in their behalf:

"All old newspapers, magazines, and other publications would be highly appreciated by Louis M. Heinrichs, Martin O. Miller, and Dewey Campbell, marines. Mail should be addressed as follows: 77 Woodrow Wilson street, U. S. Marine Headquarters, Tientsin, China."

SEEKS SPACE FOR ITALIAN PATRIOTS OF '76 IN HISTORY

Oscar Durante, school board trustee and champion of Christopher Columbus against the supporters of Left Ericson in the recent controversy over which one discovered America, yesterday petitioned Mayor Thompson to include in school histories the names of Italian patriots during the American revolutionary period. Philip Mazzoli, a friend of Durante, Jefferson, Adams, and Hamilton, who was commissioned to solicit supplies of food and ammunition from Europeans during the revolution, is omitted in the textbooks. Dr. Durante said, The names of Charles Bellini, and Michele and Giacomo Ragli, who contributed a "spray of intellectuality and of art" should also be included, the petition sets forth.

The letter was referred to J. Lewis Coath, president of the board of education, who will take the petition to the trustees for consideration.

NERVE IMPULSES SHOWN AS MERE CHEMICAL ACTION

Using apparatus so delicate that it will detect one-millionth of one-millionth of an ampere of electricity, Dr. Ralph Waldo Gerard, assistant professor of physiology at the University of Chicago, has demonstrated that the nature of nervous impulses is a chemical-oxidation process, it was announced yesterday. Proof that thinking is a chemical process also is expected from further experiments.

"Dr. Gerard's work in the field of nerve physiology is an achievement comparable to those of Prof. A. A. Michelson in physics," said Dr. Anton J. Carlson, chairman of the department of physiology at the university yesterday. Dr. Gerard performed his experiments to demonstrate the nature of nerve impulses in London and Berlin laboratories.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 11.—(AP)—A terrific explosion, said by the police to have blown out the rear wall of Tony Foley's, a gambling establishment, awakened thousands of people in the west end of the city shortly after midnight and many of them began calling newspaper offices to ascertain what caused the blast.

Walked Right In

Several weeks ago I went to a club meeting, a place I had never been before. When I got to a floor where there was a porch light I walked up and, finding the door open, walked right in and through two rooms when a woman called from a rear room: "Who is it?" and I answered: "Me, of course." Imagine my surprise when a strange person came out of her kitchen! Of course I came to explain. I found I was two doors away, in the wrong house. I assure you I left in a hurry.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.
Out of Work and in Need.

"Out of work several months, I am almost desperate. My wife and my children are in need of clothing and I can't even feed them at times. Please see what you can do for me, won't you? The children are boys, 6 and 3 years of age, and there is a baby, 4 months. I wear size 36 and my wife size 35."

Here is an earnest, sincere man who has combed the city in a fruitless search for work. It's most discouraging when there are hungry children to be fed and small bodies to be clothed and kept warm. Won't you lend a helping hand and give this family the clothing yours is about to discard?

Mild Measures Will Often Bring Needed Results

By Gladys Huntington

There are fine points in the matter of bringing up children that are just as important as the outstanding ones. There are the little things which, like the last, tiniest bit of butter the dairyman can add, tip the scales definitely. It is not always the big, obvious facts that are the most important—the subtle, less noticeable ones have their equal place.

If you observe your own children and yourself, and other children and their parents, you will notice how this applies to controlling or guiding your boys and girls. To express it definitely, it is interesting to see how much of how little pressure different parents bring to bear in order to get their results.

One father will let his son help him put on a tire and work around the car with a quiet, good natured word of suggestion here and there. Another will get impatient and raise his voice and be pretty snappy. A third will shout at his son for every mistake caused by his inexperience, call him stupid, and perhaps indulge in "languish."

mother will keep her baby from playing with the scissors by putting them away; another will simply say, "No, no," in a firm voice; another will be criss and scolding, and a fourth will slap the baby's hands.

Approximately all the fathers and all the mothers are getting the same result, but with varying degrees of severity.

If you're driving a horse and a touch of the whip will make him gallop you don't get up and belabor him. If you're breaking an egg and a tap with the knife will do it, you don't hit it as if you were trying to crack a stone.

In both cases you use just as little pressure or force as you need to gain your end, and no more.

It is an interesting principle to put into effect in dealing with your children, and tends to a most delightful relationship with them. Besides, there is the very important fact that it gives you great reserve power.

Accomplish obedience or guidance with your children by the very minimum of command, of crossness, of punishment. If your daughter is made truly sorry for having disobeyed you by your letting her see you are hurt—that is enough. It is not necessary, if often at the mildness of the measure with which you can get your results if you'll try it out.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK Baked Liver.

By Jane Eddington.

A young woman doctor, looking at the very seriously after we had discussed the present dietetic vogue of liver, said: "You know, we get results." She meant that when people had anemic and were given a liver diet their health improved.

For a year now letters have been coming in to me on this account. Various people have been put on a liver diet by it or harder to eat with liver and have applied to me for recipes to cook it in different ways from what they knew. In one case a woman had been eating it constantly for three weeks as her only meat, and felt at the end of her rope, yet must go on for three weeks longer. It seemed to me she was going to extremes because there are other foods of warranted virtue or such as contain mineral salts and vitamins.

Before we make further comment, here is a recipe we have just tried with satisfactory results, although in the beginning we were going to do something more elaborate, from verbal directions given by a woman born in Sweden.

When you ask for liver at the butcher's they will say, of course you want it sliced, but perhaps, of course, you do not. We took a one pound piece of liver, removed the inner white parts, larded it or harder to eat with salt pork, and baked it for one hour, getting something that could be cut delightfully thin and which, because of the larding, made a handsome and useful we might call a cosmopolitan slice.

All it required, perhaps, was some piquing with bits of truffle to make it highly cosmopolitan.

A thin bit of salt pork was put on the under side and then the liver put into a glass baking dish without a stand under it, then over the liver was poured two tablespoons of hot salt pork fat, and about half a cup of boiling water was put into the pan with it. It was baked every fifteen minutes, and more water was added as soon as there began to be explosions. When there is only a little water in very hot liquid it will turn to steam with great rapidity and explode with a great noise, so in cooking a piece of meat with liquid in the pan for the basting, we have to keep the balance right between the fat and water, or there is noise and trouble. We made mushroom sauce to go with this.

gained by going on and punishing him further.

Why send a child away from the dinner table if he is already chastened by his carelessness in spilling his soup or by his slovenly eating? He is punished often at the mildness of the measure with which you can get your results if you'll try it out.

On the other hand, and a thing more commonly found among young girls is the lack of regular, systematic exercise to make their bodies and internal organs develop normally.

Then, there is the matter of posture and here, if anywhere, lies the great hope of putting on an inch or two. A poor posture will make any girl look shorter and dumber than she is. An erect carriage not only gives the illusion of greater height, but it actually provides it.

An Appeal to LOUIS L. EMMERSON

IN the name of decency and good government and for the honor of Illinois, we, your friends, ask you to withdraw from the race for the governorship of Illinois and to become a candidate for United States Senator.

A situation has been brought about in Illinois in which any strong candidate with an honorable record can become governor. There are at present two such men contesting for the place and it is impossible for both to win. Indeed, unless one withdraws, it is fairly certain that the good people of Illinois will be divided and both will be defeated.

Oscar E. Carlstrom announced his candidacy in August, when the present situation was not foreseen. He has carried on a vigorous campaign in fifty-five counties and in a field of two candidates he can win. He is a young man, forceful and vigorous, fully qualified for the position to which he aspires and with a record which assures a fearless administration. He has gone too far in his campaign to withdraw.

The United States senatorship is the highest honor which may be conferred upon a citizen of Illinois and it will be eminently fitting that you round out your long and honorable career in this great office. With your thousands of friends and admirers it is practically yours for the asking.

The issue of good government in Illinois, therefore, Mr. Emmerson, is in your hands and your duty is plainly indicated. Your record assures us that in considering this proposal you will hold the public interests paramount and will not hesitate to sacrifice a personal preference for the good of the State and its people. In this faith we pledge you our wholehearted support and greet you as the next United States senator from Illinois.

(This advertisement is paid for by admirers of Louis L. Emmerson and Oscar E. Carlstrom, who are supporters of good government in Illinois.)

Pool Hustles Blessefeld to Victory at New Orleans

New Orleans, La., Feb. 10.—(Special.)—The hustling ride Jockey Earl Pool gave Blessefeld brought the Royal stakeholder representative a victory today in the feature race, fourth on the card at the Fair Grounds. Pool's alertness at the barrier enabled Blessefeld to beat the gale and obtain a flying start that made him the winner by a length and a half.

Black Friar was second and Be Still third. Both of these horses were caught in the barrier and their win chances ruined.

Delphi Beats Queena Marie.

Blessefeld, a bad actor at the post, broke fast and Pool permitted him to stop along. Meanwhile Be Still and Black Friar were having their trouble at the barrier, and when they got out, Blessefeld was so far in front it seemed almost impossible to overtake him. However, Blessefeld tired and it was only Pool's energetic riding which saved the Royal stakeholder from defeat.

In the third number, Pool's mastery was shown. Pool, who was the favorite, Queena Marie, and matched victory by finding a hole in the barrier, and when they got out, Pool was half a length from Queena Marie, with Sir Barclay third.

Pool Rides Three Winners.

Pool made it three in a row when he piloted Col. Board home in the fifth. Col. Board was knocked back at the start, but closed fast and took the lead in the stretch and won by two lengths.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
 New York, Feb. 10. (Special.)—The stock market was highly irregular today, with minus and plus signs scattered promiscuously through the list without any definite relation to group action or to the day's news. Short covering was one of the features and generally the market fluctuated over a wide range.

The market apparently has reached a point where it is entirely without trend and is fluctuating easily, although widely, in the run into which it has drifted. Trading quieted down considerably, as compared with the previous day, the total of 2,303,300 being approximately 75,000 shares less than Thursday.

Gains Widely Distributed.
 Gains of from two points upward were established in such widely diversified issues as United States Steel, Iron Pipe, Vicks Chemical, Tobacco Products, A. M. C. Corporation, National Tea, Fox Film, and Reading Coal and Iron, American Radiator, and Atlantic Refining. On the other hand, there were equally large losses in such issues as American Machinery and Foundry, American Railway Express, Du Pont, General Asphalt, Gillette Safety Razor, National Lead, and United States Rubber.

The United States Steel corporation's report on unfilled bookings in January was heartily interpreted in some quarters where a larger increase had been hoped for. Steel, after dropping to 144, recovered to 146 and closed with a net gain of 1/2 point.

Motor Shares Easier.
 Motor shares generally closed lower. General Motors, at 154, was off 1/4 of a point; Packard, at 69 1/2, was fractionally, and Chrysler, at 60 1/2, showed a net loss of 1/2 of a point. The rubber stocks continued to be influenced by the rather drastic break in the rubber market. United States Rubber was off 2 points and Goodrich a point.

Radio Corporation declined under considerable short selling. However, it managed to climb back from a low of 9 1/2 to close at 9 1/4. Its loss on the day was fractional. Vanadium Corporation fluctuated over a wide range with the tendency toward lower levels until just before the close, when it climbed to 3 1/4, to finish the day with a net gain of 1/4 point. The Porto Rican American Tobacco issues ran up to 10 1/2, 10 1/4, and 10 1/2.

Rails were Mixed. Union Pacific showing the greatest strength and closing at 19 1/2, up 1/4 point. Delaware and Maryland closed at 14 1/2, with a net loss of 1/4 point.

12 POINT GAIN IN DEERE & CO. IS CURB FEATURE

New York, Feb. 10. (AP)—Bullish speculative interests made careful selections in the curb market today and favored the advance of many issues. General weakness of the market, however, was evident. Early in the day buying was active and prices were rising, but later movements became limited and cautious. Industrials and utilities were irregular and oils showed further weakness.

Buying by western speculators made Deere & Co. a feature, the issue shooting up 12 points to a new high at 27 1/2. American Department Store advanced about 2 points to a new high at 19 1/2. Gobel set another new high record with a small gain, and C. Spaulding rose 4 points to a new high at 14 1/2.

Recent favorites lost ground, among them American Rolling Mill, Atlas Plywood, Banatville, Campbell-Walker, C. S. Case, Ford Canada and Keystone Steel and Wire. Large early gains provided strength for People's Drug Stores, Safeway Stores, Shattuck Grocers and Lehigh Coal and Navigation.

The utilities moved within narrow limits and chiefly downward, although United Gas improvement made a gain of nearly 1 point. Gulf 4 point drop to a new low of 10 1/2 was outstanding among the depressed oil stocks.

Shattuck and Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting made small gains, but the usual feature of the mining issue, Newmont, had an irregular day, opening at 169, rising a bit, dropping to 167 and closing at 170.

GRAIN DECLINE ON LONG SELLING, PROFIT TAKING

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets yesterday developed an overbought condition, and with a smaller volume of trade a decline in value was easily attained with profit taking by scattered long the main influence. Wheat closed 1/4¢ lower than March, 1.04 1/4 to 1.05 1/4; May, 1.12 1/4, and July, 1.27 1/4 to 1.28 1/4. Corn was 1/4¢ lower with March leading. Last year's crop was 1.00 to 1.01; May, 1.04 to 1.05, and July, 1.19 to 1.20. Oats were 1/4¢ lower, while rye was 1/4¢ higher.

There was an absence of the aggressive selling demand for cash wheat so much in evidence the previous day, and while one elevator interest bought 50,000 bu. No. 1 northern from another cash house and premium on spot was firm, sales over the week-end were relatively small. Weather conditions over the belt were rather favorable.

While corn bulls continue very confident of their position there was little increase in the outside buying, and a holiday Monday the disposition was to take profit. Prices declined 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ over the high of the previous day and closed about the level with buying against bids checking the downturn.

No change was shown in the local or Kansas City spot basis. A cold wave has developed in Alaska, and while the forecast was for moderate temperatures over the week-end it was regarded as probable that colder weather would follow.

Oats were dull and easier with corn with leading pressure a factor and the market had a heavy undertone. Trading in the July delivery is now in new and old style contracts, as the result of increasing the discount on No. 2 white for delivery from 1/4¢ per bu. to 1/2¢.

Yield of 68.3%
The first mortgage bonds of the largest company in an old established industry yield 6.83%. In our opinion these bonds are selling below their intrinsic worth and offer an opportunity for profitable investment.
